Two of the latest blog entries on Esri's Mapping Center site talk about the usefulness of Tissot's Indicatrices in understanding projection distortion (
Tissot's indicatrix helps illustrate map projection distortion
) and how to create them (
Making of Tissot's Indicatrices
). For anyone using GIS who struggles either understanding or teaching projections, I highly recommend reading these two.