O'Reilly's Where 2.0 Conference is going on right now and I found out that they are streaming live the keynote speakers. This has given me some great listening opportunities during my work day. They also are posting videos of the speakers on their website for viewing at a later date. I highly recommend going to their video page and viewing some.