Sunday's San Francisco Chronicle had an article, PG&E's computer system faulted for pipeline errors , about some findings regarding the San Bruno gas line explosion. One of the problems the article brings up is an inadequate GIS. Give the article a read and it helps drive home the point that doing quality work as a first priority should be a standard within our industry.